

WASHING AWAY THE TEARS

IRON THUNDERHORSE[∞]

Webe wah | kesuk wut-che | pummuk-onk quah neen | ha-kame | kee youh
Tis the | day of the | danc-ing | and we | wel-come you | here

Pok-ke-tam keen | ne-en-tam , | Pok-ke-tam keen | Si-puk Nea-ra Cast a-way your | gr-ief , | Set as-ide your | tears. We your

ketomp natch-kok | mam-mach kee. | Rio, kissi skee-zuckash | ea kesuk friends se-ek to | com-fort you. | So, dry your eyes | this day.

[∞] Iron Thunderhorse is a published author of over 20 publications and a columnist and journalist whose work has been published in over 50 forums, and included in the work of many others. His official biography is: FOLLOWING THE FOOTPRINTS OF A STONE GIANT, by Ruth Mahweeyeuh Thunderhorse, © 2007 InfinityPublishing.com, ISBN 0-7414-3977-8. He speaks over a dozen languages and specializes in indigenous art, crafts, history, cultural traditions and linguistics. He serves currently as Elder-Advisor Emeritus for the Jailhouse Lawyer Initiative at NYU.