GEOFF MARTIN[∞]

Raindrops thump sporadically around a prison yard.
On its sun-baked concrete basketball court
 each drop evaporates instantly with a whispered hiss...
 and a misty halo.
An old man shuffles to center court...
 sprawls out wide...
listening to the soft whispers that surround him.

[∞] Geoff Martin is 23 yrs into an LWOP sentence and started writing to explore and express himself. It has been the catalyst for his transformation. He currently works as a field minister striving to help others make positive change in their lives, hopefully to never return to prison.
